

Symptoms:

- Error message “0x800701: A device which does not exist was specified.”
- External USB drive not accessible.

Cause:

- Commonly occurs after Windows 11 cumulative update KB5008353.
- Driver conflict with USB 3.0 controller.

Resolution:

1. Open Device Manager.
2. Expand Universal Serial Bus controllers.
3. Right-click → Uninstall device for the faulty USB controller.
4. Reboot → Windows auto-installs correct driver.
5. If issue persists, install updated USB drivers from vendor site.
